Rise in budget expected Lab chief predicts record year

LIVERMORE — Terming the state of Lawrence Livermore Laboratory in 1975 "healthy, successful and dynamic," Director Roger Batzel yesterday predicted next year's budget will swell to record proportions, and the number of lab employees will top 6,000 for the first time in its history.

In his annual address to a select group of LLL employees, Dr. Batzel said he was confident the federal government would approve a $241.4 million budget for fiscal year 1977, increasing staff appropriations by 19 per cent.

Twelve per cent will go toward cost of living increases for existing personnel; the remaining 7 per cent will go toward hiring an additional 450 employees, bringing the total staff level to 6,200, the first time in the lab's history it has topped the 6,000 mark.

To counteract what Dr. Batzel termed the "widespread conviction in the nation that we have been falling behind in defense," the weapons program budget will be increased by 18 per cent from $109.5 million in 1976 to $128.8 million in 1977.

Weapons will comprise 55 per cent of the lab's budget.

The new budget allows for expansion in lab facilities and provides for a 20 per cent increase in equipment outlays.

The lab's efforts in fusion, both magnetic confinement and laser, are also slated for expansion.

Dr. Batzel lauded accomplishments in the magnetic confinement (CTR) fusion program which he said "represent major experimental and theoretical advance."

The LLL mirror approach, he said, is a "strong contender for ultimate power generation," noting a prototype will probably not be ready until 1995.

Dr. Batzel said discoveries in the lab's laser fusion program last year offer promise of "shortening the time to achieve laser fusion goals."

Energy projects showing promise for expansion, Dr. Batzel said, include solar ponds, wind energy, fly-wheel development and lithium-air-water batteries.

He said diversification has strengthened the laboratory. Noting that five years ago 75 per cent of the lab's effort was in weapons, he said non-weapons programs now account for about 45 per cent of the lab's effort.

"New kinds of programs have provided significant stability to the lab," said Dr. Batzel, "and the wide spectrum cushions changes in any one program within the lab."

Sources of excellence within LLL, Dr. Batzel said, include able people, a strong technical base, a flexible organization, and a climate favorable to applied technology.

Questioned about personnel difficulties that have plagued LLL during the last year, Dr. Batzel conceded "we have things to improve."

But relatively speaking, he said the Energy Research and Development Agency, for which LLL is operated, regards LLL as a model to be emulated by other laboratories.

He agreed that in an organization that is large and ever-growing,

"the opportunity for misunderstanding is substantial."

But Dr. Batzel said he was pleased with efforts by Dr. James Carothers of the Human Resources and Laboratory Relations division to redress personnel problems.

Delighted with the year's progress, Dr. Batzel congratulated his staff and urged "may the next year be as productive."

Choral teacher may face ouster charges by board

An attempt is being made to oust an Amador Valley High School choral music instructor who has been a staff member for 10 years and is well-known throughout the valley music community.

Though it could not be verified by late Tuesday, it was learned by The Times Monday that Mrs. Miriam Wain be notified by the Amador school board of an intent to dismiss her from her position at the high school.

The charges have been under discussion at the district level for several weeks and are allegedly centered on student provoked discipline matters during a chorus tour to Carmel last spring and other alleged incidents involving student conduct.

The Times has also learned that the California Teachers Association is aware of the matter, as is the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association, a CTA-affiliate.

The CTA stands ready to provide legal assistance when charges are brought against a teacher, which is apparently the case here.

Carl Krause, assistant superintendent for personnel, was not available for comment late yesterday when The Times sought to learn if the Amador board was to receive a recommendation to dismiss concerning Mrs. Wain.

City must meet and confer

Firemen win 'landmark' case

PLEASANTON — The local firefighters union won what its president called a "landmark case" in government employee law, it was announced yesterday.

A three-man appellate court panel ruled that the city must meet and confer with the firefighters on three specific points addressed in the law suit, City Attorney Ken Scheidig announced to the press yesterday.

International Association of Firefighters Union Local 1974 President Bill Barry interpreted the decision for The Times: "It eliminates arbitrary decisions (on the part of city management)."

"For example, the city changed the requirement for service from three and a half years to four years in service before reaching the top pay step in firefighter classification," said Barry. "They changed it arbitrarily to four years, meaning the fireman lost six months from the top-step salary."

The court decision says that the city can't do that reclassification "arbitrarily," said Barry. Instead, the city must make that a "meet and confer" item with the fire personnel — or any other city, state or federal government personnel in the same situation, said Barry.

"It doesn't mean the city couldn't make the reclassification. It means that they have to talk to us about these things," said Barry.

The Pleasanton union local brought suit more than two years ago through its attorney, Allen

Davis of San Francisco, and lost in superior court in a decision rendered by Judge Donald Fretz, a visiting judge from Merced.

The unanimous decision yesterday was written by Judge Rattigan and Judges Christian and Emerson concurred.

The decision shows that "no matter who you are, little man or big man, the law is the law and we all have to follow it," said Barry.

Amador responds to teachers

PLEASANTON — Amador Valley Joint High School District trustees presented their response last night to a teachers' association contract proposal, a key point being that the salary schedule should remain the same for 1976-77.

Trustees, after a brief public hearing at which no comments were made by the meager audience, summarized the 33-page response.

Wally Decker, newly elected board president, said the "the scope of negotiations is limited to wages, hours of employment and health and welfare benefits, leave and transfer policies, safety conditions of employment, class size, evaluation procedures, organizational security and procedures for processing grievances."

Decker added that the district administration negotiation team "wants to make sure that we discuss items that really exist and not speak to items dictated by an outside agency."

Additionally, Decker opined that "we believe that there are not anywhere near the pressing problems that exist in neighboring districts."

The response says the district will "consult on those items that fall outside of the scope of representation under the negotiation personnel files, personal and academic freedom, public charges against employees, materials and supplies, supervision of non-teachers, teacher travel and physical exams."

The board response also urges a teacher work day of 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., with a 30 minute, duty-free lunch period.

On class size, "teachers will be hired on basis of one fulltime equivalent teacher for every 27 students enrolled."

The board also learned that the district's four psychologists have requested representation separate from AVSEA.

AVSEA has 170 members out of approximately 218 certificated teachers in the district.

Ford, Udall, Jackson claim new victories

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

Rep Morris K. Udall captured the lead in Wisconsin's presidential primary election Tuesday night while Sen. Henry M. Jackson took command of the contest for New York's Democratic nominating votes.

While they were landing a one-two punch against Democratic front-runner Jimmy Carter, Jackson's New York delegate showing was short of the majority he had forecast.

ABC and NBC both said their projections showed Udall a winner, for the first time, in Wisconsin. Carter had said he expected to run first there.

President Ford swept past Republican challenger Ronald Reagan to win the Wisconsin primary, and a spokesman said he was pleased with a victory that exceeded his expectations. "The game is not momentum now, it is delegates," said No. 2 Ford campaign coordinator Stuart Spencer.

A nice 'surprise' in city's budget

PLEASANTON — The city has spent a little less than anticipated and taken in a little more revenue than expected, City Manager Bill Edgar told the council Monday night.

The increased revenues largely come from building permits issued during the first half of the fiscal year, said Edgar. He noted that the city staff does not take building permits into account when it sets up the annual budget. They are one-time only revenues and fluctuate in number annually so are not a predictable source of income, he said.

Councilman William Herlihy wondered why one column of figures had a $35,000 surplus, not a zero balance.

Edgar explained that the revenues came in a little higher than predicted, but out of a $4 million budget, that $35,000 difference amounted to only a .9 percent deviation from the staff prediction, said Edgar. "You can't get much closer than that," he added.

The budget predicts an ending surplus June 30 of $320,399, based on the assumption that the city will be able to issue 491 sewer permits, a combination of 200 in the Valley Community Services District area and 291 in the Sunol sewer treatment plant area.

The 200 in the VCSD area are almost a certainty, said Edgar. Developers have put deposits on them and must pick them up within a year. The city will present its request for 291 permits at the Sunol plant to the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board. The city is optimistic about receiving all or a good portion of them.

If only the VCSD permits are available, the ending surplus in the budget would be $254,000. The surplus at the beginning of the budget year was $325,371.

If the city has all 491 sewer permits, the surplus would be 7.6 percent of the city's total expenditures. If only the VCSD permits are obtained, the total would be six percent. If, as is unlikely, the city got no permits, the surplus would be $208,451 or five percent of the total expenditures.

They're off from Sunol to Solvang ..... In the dawn's early drizzle

DUBLIN — In the drizzle of yesterday's dawn, while saner folks crawled back under the covers for a few minutes' more sleep, 18 crazy cyclists embarked upon a 300-mile bicycle tour from Sunol to Solvang.

The group, all members of the Valley Spokesmen Bicycle Touring Club, plans to arrive in Solvang in time for this weekend's 12th Annual Great Western Bicycling Rally — and a hundred more miles of cycling!

What prompts this profuse pedaling? A combination of things: love of the sport; a desire for exercise; the opportunity to be with their families, visit new places, meet new people.

And the members of the Dublin-based Valley Spokesmen are on the go every weekend, with special events during the week, too.

The club originated in 1971, sponsored by Valley Community Services District. Though VCSD still provides some support, the club is basically self-sufficient, raising its own funds and maintaining its own treasury.

In five years the group has grown from 81 active members to nearly 300 members in 1976.

Modest membership dues of $6 per year, $3 per half-year for families and lower rates for and $4 for individuals have made cycling a family event.

Membership is open to all valley residents, and while most members have ten-speed bicycles, some have five- or three-speeds, and children ride "sting-rays."

"People in the club have everything from a $600 model to a Sears special," said Bonnie Powers, club secretary and one of its founding members.

The Spokesmen have activities scheduled for nearly every weekend. Rides are rated by length, difficulty (flat to very hilly), and pace (leisurely to strenuous).

The biggest event of the year is the Valley Spokesmen Hekaton Classic to be held Sunday, Sept. 5.

It has grown into one of the largest "century runs" in the Bay Area. Last year, cyclists from as far as Los Angeles attended.

A "century run," or "hekaton," is a 100-mile bike tour that must be completed in 12 hours.

Participants also may ride a 25-mile loop ("quarter century") or a 50-mile loop ("half-century"). Those who finish any of the three loops are awarded quarter, half or century patches.

This format is used at similar rallies, such as the Great Western Bicycling Rally the Valley Spokesmen will attend this weekend, and the Yosemite Spring Bike Rally scheduled for May 1-2.

Powers admitted there are some people who think Valley Spokesmen will do anything to get a patch.

Other less ambitious but well-attended events sponsored by the Spokesmen include "women-oriented" rides during the week.

"Some of the women are intimidated when riding with the men on weekends," said Powers, "so we set up the 'women-oriented' rides for them."

From 18 to 25 women and some retired gentlemen take part in the local, leisurely paced tours held on Wednesdays.

The group also holds repair clinics. "We had a clinic in our garage last week," said Powers.

"You should have seen the members — men and women — some who had never taken their bikes apart before — tearing them down, greasing them up, getting dirty and learning from it."

A well-maintained bicycle is a must, Powers said. "Most people respect their bicycles," Powers said, "and it's important that they be inspected. People often don't realize the shape their bikes should be in."

Even with bikes in top shape, Powers said, things do go wrong. "We usually have at least one person with a flat on every ride. But, there's an advantage to that — it gives us time to take a break and visit with each other."

The group meets the first Thursday of each month at Shannon Park Community Center in Dublin. "Everyone's welcome to join," said Powers, "and we encourage families."

Those interested in joining the group can call Powers at 828-5299 — if you can catch her between tours.

Inventors emerge in valley; exchange ideas at new club

Local inventors are finally coming out of the "closet."

The Livermore scientist experimenting with artificial plant protein — the park manager who has a new kind of calendar — the 87-year-old man who figured out a different way to play poker — and the Pleasanton mechanic who is improving truck transmissions: They'll all be meeting regularly at a Valley-wide inventors' club that has just been launched.

Sherman Jenkins of Livermore is the Lawrence Livermore Lab physics technician who experiments with processes for making artificial meat from plant protein. He already holds a patent on one of his processes and is still working on the idea.

Jenkins has been named chairman of the new local chapter of Inventors' Workshop International (IWI), an Encino-based nonprofit organization dedicated to making life better for the inventor.

Clever ideas, as simple as a new packaging design or as complicated as an engine, may be valuable to somebody. But many are so easy to copy, the inventor needs some protection. And sometimes, an inventor needs to have his idea matched up with just the company that can capitalize on it.

That's where IWI fits in — offering inventors ways to protect themselves, to evaluate and promote their ideas.

"We're going to start out with encouraging the inventor," Jenkins says of his newly formed chapter. "We'll talk about the problems of individual inventors and about a wide variety of things."

"I'm sure there are a lot of people in the area who are closet inventors."

Also active in forming the IWI chapter are Ray Oppen, an 87-year-old Pleasanton man, and James Fowler of Danville. They had a meeting with Melvin Fuller, head of the IWI organization, last weekend in Pleasanton to set up the chapter. Other chapters are already in operation in San Jose and Vallejo.

Membership costs $55 — seemingly a princely sum, but the amount covers evaluation of an invention, advice, a magazine called the Lightbulb and a journal for recording ideas.

Meetings will probably be held the third Tuesday evening of the month, but the location is yet to be announced.

The Lawrence Livermore Lab's information department has promised to keep LLL's 5,000 employees informed on club activities.

No return to Manzanar when they celebrate anniversary

When Carl and Elaine Yoneda mark their 43rd wedding anniversary this month, their thoughts will no doubt go back to where they spent their ninth and tenth anniversaries and the prevailing mood of the times.

The story of Carl and Elaine is a very unique one, played initially against the swirling times of Pre-World War II.

What set them apart at that time is the fact that Carl is of Japanese ancestry and Elaine is a Caucasian woman, born in Manhattan and educated on the west coast in San Diego.

Both are now in their senior years but their memories of Pre-World War II and the times during the war are as vivid as yesterday.

Carl had been drafted by the Imperial Japanese Army but the stage for what happened to them (internment at Manzanar Relocation Center) was really set in the 1930s.

Both were active in social causes during that period, Elaine expressing her zeal in the civil rights field by working to get unemployment insurance for workers.

Both picketed against the shipping of scrap iron to Japan prior to 1941. Shipping of the iron by United States interests actually occurred before and during Japan's incursion into Manchuria.

When World War II struck on Dec. 7, 1941, the fate of Carl Yoneda and thousands of other Japanese living in this country was thrust into the hands of the U.S. government.

What evolved has left permanent scars on the memories of both Carl and Elaine.

At a presentation last week before an Amador Valley High humanities class, Carl displayed signs and articles that were prevalent during the war years — including a "Jap hunting license" sign and an article purportedly run in Look magazine entitled "How to tell Japanese from Chinese" — Elaine interjects, in a good-natured manner, "You know, to this day I can't tell."

Both believe that it was an executive order (No. 9066), signed by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, that set up removing of aliens to relocation centers. Elaine remarks that the order never specified "Japanese."

Carl entered the Manzanar center on March 3, 1942 and Elaine virtually had to "fight my way in" to be with her husband. Their son, Tommy, was three years old at the time. Both recall the days and months of deprivation that ensued. Carl left the camp when he volunteered, along with thousands of other Japanese, to join the U.S. Armed Forces.

Elaine worked as a librarian (48-hour weeks at minimal pay) at Manzanar.

But both manage to cloak their bitterness and resentment of past years in the hope of the present and future.

It has been a turbulent road to understanding, but both see it as a journey that has brought a happier and more enlightened ending for all concerned.

Boyd Bangerter's red, white and blue paper mache liberty bell, decorated with famous 1776 quotations, won him a first - prize eagle bank in a contest at Arroyo Mocho School recently. Saville Bray took a third place with her macrame bell, while David Villalobos, right, placed second with his paper mache model. Other students at the Livermore elementary school made bells out of a pumpkin, cake, chocolate, a flowerpot and more conventional materials such as wood and paper. It was a class project of Mrs. Marie Timmer. Judges were school trustee Manuel Prado, teacher Marilyn Calhoun and blacksmith Ron Bell. (Times photo)

Library honors volunteers

PLEASANTON — Nina Patton, Donna Magdefrau and Barbara Ashton, all of Pleasanton, will be honored with other Alameda County Library volunteers at a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. today (Wednesday) at the Fremont Main Library.

The honorees have been delivering books, records, magazines and newspapers to persons confined to their homes or in convalescent hospitals, board and care homes and senior citizens apartment centers through a volunteer program organized by the library three years ago.

"The loyalty and devotion of the volunteers is always inspiring," said Ruth Peterson, volunteer coordinator for the library. "They bring a great deal more than library materials to the shut - ins; they also bring love and assurance that someone else cares."

"A luncheon is really not adequate thanks for their hours of assistance," said Mrs. Peterson, "but it is a gesture of our appreciation for their service to the library, the community, and the shut - ins."

4-H club field day scheduled

The next planning meeting for the Livermore Valley 4-H Clubs field day scheduled for Saturday, May 1 at Livermore High School will be held on Tuesday, April 20 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held at the Farm Bureau Building in Livermore. All project junior leaders are invited to attend.

The event, "Livermore 4-H in Action Day" is open to the public and will begin at 9:30 a.m. Demonstrations and informative talks will be presented by project groups. Competitive games and a carnival will be staged throughout the day. A snack bar will be manned by the East County junior leaders and all proceeds will benefit the area junior leader group.

Twin Valley service plans music festival

LIVERMORE — Plans are now in the making for the Valley's fourth annual folk music festival, staged by Twin Valley Counseling Service.

The festival will be held at Livermore High School on Maple Street at 7:30 p.m., Friday, May 21.

The festival committee invites all local folk music lovers to participate in the benefit program. Musicians specializing in blues music are especially sought out.

Fraudulent sales practices charged

Misuse of candy sales funds charged in CC County

Leshar News Bureau
MARTINEZ — Three firms using underprivileged youths to sell candy and cookies have been ordered to halt sales pending the outcome of a Superior Court hearing here.

The three firms have been ordered to appear before Judge Martin Rothenberg April 26 to show cause why they shouldn't be permanently restrained.

The firms are charged with fraudulent sales practices and violations of child labor laws by requiring the youths between 10 and 16 years old to work up to 44 hours a week after school, District Attorney William O'Malley said.

He identified the three firms as American Youth Club, California Youth Club, and Youth Incentives, Inc., all non-profit groups. Also named were three representatives of the firms, Donald Templin of San Francisco, James Martin of Southern California and Gerald Winters, presently in Florida.

The firms are headquartered in San Francisco.

"The children are trained to tell potential customers that they are raising money for a center available to underprivileged youths. Customers are also told that the money raised finances trips to Disneyland, camping trips, field trips and other outings," O'Malley said.

In 1976, the only activities available to the youths have been a few trips to the movies, to go-cart races, bowling and one overnight trip. Many of these were paid for by the youths who were even made to sell on the overnight trip, he added.

"Less than 5 per cent of the money collected is used to support activities for young people," he charged.

An extensive pattern of exploiting the youths was also alleged, including: --requiring a 10-year-old boy to sell one evening despite his complaints he had the flu.

--physically pushing another youth around when he sold only one box of candy.

--a abandoning a

10-year-old boy in Pleasant Hill.

None of the youths, many of whom were from the Richmond and San Pablo areas, had work permits. Further, state law prohibits work by youths under age 14 on school nights. Over age 14, youths may work up to four hours every school night, O'Malley said.

He asked the court to penalize the firms and their representatives $2,500 for each false statement and $2,500 for each time a juvenile was used unlawfully to sell to the public.

Environmentalists hit Dow Chemical's plans

Leshar News Bureau
SAN FRANCISCO — Friends of the Earth are charging that plans for the new Dow Chemical Company's complex on the Sacramento River are part of a widespread effort to use up open land.

In a statement released by the San Francisco branch of the environmentalist group, the group attacks Dow's proposed $500 million petrochemical complex planned for Pittsburg and a site in Solano County across the river.

The group links the Dow plant with "a widespread effort to construct heavy industrial facilities and create new economic centers in now-open land, as a result of the arrival of Alaskan oil in California."

"Serious open questions of public costs of the plants and long term environmental and economic effects on the community remain outside proper public review at this time," according to the statement.

The group has called for a moratorium on all construction related to facilities that could use Alaskan oil until "statewide impacts are fully assessed."

Plans for a $1 billion Arco facility in Solano County are also attacked.

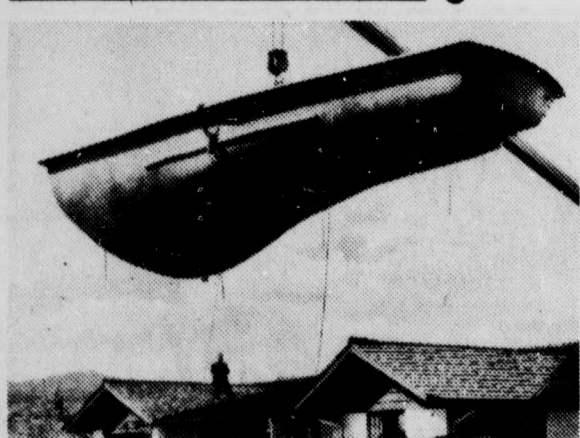

"While the Alaskan pipeline was sold to the American public as a solution to the energy crisis, Dow, Arco, and other petrochemical giants plan to siphon off the oil nearly at its source for plastics production," the statement says.

Dow officials claim the new plant would provide 1,000 new jobs, but the group labels that figure "deceptive."

"Untold numbers of jobs will be eliminated as agriculture is forced out of the county by the chain of industrialization initiated by Dow and Arco," it claims.

The group claims Solano County has a 7.4 per cent unemployment rate and is "relatively stable." The group claims Pittsburg has an unemployment rate of 18.8 per cent, indicating "chemical-related industries suffer unstable employment."

ARE CONCRETE SWIMMING POOLS OBSOLETE?

Judge for yourself!

This is a SAN JUAN, fiberglass, one piece swimming pool being lowered into the prepared ground! A beautiful, full-sized pool with a permanently smooth, non-abrasive finish that algae simply cannot invade! Only one of the reasons why up to 90% of old fashioned cement pools' maintenance effort and expense can be eliminated.

The SAN JUAN POOL comes in several sizes (shown here, 16 by 34 feet); equipped as you wish and priced demonstrably fairer than a plaster/concrete pool. It's longer lasting, too, because fiberglass, 12 times stronger than concrete, is forever. Colorful, it never needs painting! Moulded in the plant in one piece, in one incredible process, the SAN JUAN has a structural, yet flexible strength that has withstood four major earthquakes. Ask about our exclusive 25 year pool guarantee! Much faster, easier to install... before investing in any pool get the complete story, including color photos of local installations. Get the concrete pool story, too... it only makes ours better!

P.S. Off-season, winter prices now in effect! Save importantly.

Susan Perlman and Steffi Rubin of Jews for Jesus.

Passover program at John Knox set tonight

A special program of drama, testimony and song revolving around a Christian understanding of the Jewish Passover will be presented at John Knox United Presbyterian Church in Dublin tonight at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be conducted by Sue Perlman and Steffi Rubin, evangelists with Jews for Jesus. They will set a table with the traditional Jewish accoutrements and foods, and explain ancient and modern Jewish customs. Their intent is to show a Jewish background for the Christian Communion celebration.

The two young Jewish women have been believers in Jesus since 1970. Ms. Rubin, 25, has illustrated most of the Gospel literature for the Jews for Jesus organization. She has also participated in, and organized the Jewish Gospel music group, "The Liberated Wailing Wall." Steffi describes herself as "a nice Jewish girl from the Bronx."

Ms. Perlman, 24, is from Brooklyn, N.Y., and has written many articles on Jewish-Christian relations published in magazines such as the "Christian Review," "Eternity," "A.D. Magazine," and "Christian Life."

Sue has also founded and directed the dramatic team of Jews for Jesus, the New Jerusalem Players.

The Rev. Jim Griffes invites the public to the Passover presentation. There will be no admission charge.

John Knox Church is located at 7421 Amarillo Rd., Dublin.

Workshop stresses CAN-do

Self-Esteem Learning Focus (S.E.L.F.) is the name of a month-long, 30-hour workshop which teaches participants to recognize and use their personal strengths.

Dr. James Carothers and Mrs. Ruth Gasten of Livermore will conduct a S.E.L.F. workshop beginning Saturday, April 24. Dr. Carothers and Mrs. Gasten have worked with teachers in the Livermore Unified School District, teach a class at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory for Chabot College, and have lectured widely on the development of personal potential.

The session beginning April 24 will be limited to 12 persons. For information contact Mrs. Gasten at 447-8487.

"Most of us don't do as well in our job as we could," comments Dr. Carothers. "We don't get along as well as we'd like to with our friends or other people on the job. Most of us would like to have a smoother time with our family than we do."

"One of the reasons for our problems, scientists who study human behavior believe, is because almost no one uses his full potential. It's surprising, how simply learning to identify and accept the good things leads to widespread changes in the way you interact with the world."

"On the other hand, we live in a 'put-down' society, and many people spend a lot of their time and energy thinking about their faults and the faults of other people. It is much easier to deal with life by learning to use the strengths we all have."

Women's center offers course on finding yourself, finding a job

A vocational exploration and job-finding workshop for women will be conducted April 19 through May 28 by Chabot College at the South County Women's Center in Hayward.

The workshop, which convenes 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays, will cover developing a positive self-image, building confidence and personal effectiveness, career paths and objectives, job market research, pre-interview preparation, interview techniques, and local job market information.

Julie Kiser, a vocational counselor with a master's degree in counseling, will lead the workshop. Interested individuals may register by telephoning 537-2112.

The workshop may be taken for 1½ units of college credit.

The South County Women's Center is located at 25036 Hillary St., Hayward.

Interested in aviation?

Airman launches new teen club

BY REINA WHITNEY

"Air Exploring," a unit which seeks to introduce the elements of aviation to interested teens (15 to 21) is bringing an organizational unit to Livermore Airport.

Young aviation fans from throughout the valley are invited to attend the orientation meeting Monday, April 12, at the Livermore Airport's Administration Building at 7:30 p.m.

Bob Jones, a Pleasanton resident with an AA degree in Aeronautics from the College of San Mateo, will spearhead the group and hopes to offer an interesting, constructive alternative to boys and girls of the area who might have a genuine interest in aviation.

The Livermore Airman's Association, an organization of local pilots interested in furthering aviation within the community will act as sponsors and lend assistance with technical instruction to the new group.

Jones, holder of a private pilot's license for small engine planes, personally utilizes the facilities out of Hayward where he has access to the use of private planes for recreational flying. But, since living in Pleasanton for four years, he became aware that there was no actual involvement of the teenagers with aviation as a group.

He knows that he himself was very interested in flying while in high school but his school offered no classes in aviation. He discovered a group of airmen in Hayward and benefitted so much from its instruction, that he decided to make flying a career. He learned that The College of San Mateo was one of the few colleges in the country that gives a degree in Aeronautical Sciences. Although Bob Jones hasn't fulfilled his ambitions of becoming a commercial pilot, he logs as much flying time as possible while working for the City of Livermore. In the meantime, this tall husky 24-year-old married man, is unselfishly offering his time and the benefit of his flying experiences to other teenagers who would also like to further their ambitions in aviation.

lifestyle

"Most kids," says Jones "that are interested in aviation can't afford the expense of getting a private pilot's license which could cost anywhere from $600 to $1200." Through this new group he feels they can get a maximum of exposure without investing a lot of money, plus having a lot of pleasure with some worthwhile experiences.

They start the youngsters out by teaching them all the basic elements of aviation. The groups usually meet once a week. In addition to lectures plans are underway to take the local youth on tours of the different airlines and field trips to surrounding air shows. One speaker that has already been lined up owns and has restored an old P-51 used during World War II.

The group members

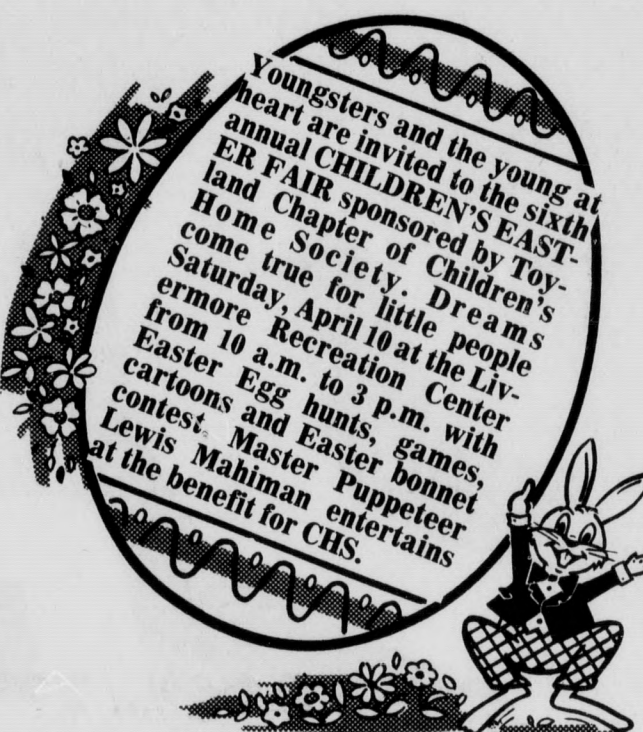

BOB JONES wants to offer the benefit of his flying experience to teenagers of the valley interested in aviation.

will also receive other instructions in the mechanics of the airships. It is hoped that instructions will also include air-traffic control. Although the youngsters will not receive actual flying instructions, they will be given enough basics, so that when they are ready for flying lessons, they will be able to pass many of the initial tests necessary for a pilot's license.

Once the group is started the members themselves are encouraged to elect their own leaders and decide on their own dues. A fee of $6 will be asked of those who care to join the group, but will not be required at the first April 12 meeting. This will be more of an orientation informational meeting.

According to Mr. Jones, the new aviation group for valley teens has unlimited possibilities. He would like to stress that the club is open to both boys and girls, but they must have a genuine interest in aviation.

Sommerfest to swing June 26 this year

Plans are in the offing for the ninth annual Sommerfest to be sponsored by the Livermore Cultural Arts Council Saturday, June 26 at The Barn from 6 to 11:30 p.m.

Annual Choralrama set at Amador High

The Eighth Annual Pleasanton - Dublin Choralrama is slated for the Amador Valley High School boys gym on Monday, April 26.

Schools participating will be Amador Valley High School, Dublin High, Harvest Park School, Pleasanton Middle School, and Wells Intermediate.

Five apply for Housing Authority seats

LIVERMORE — Hazel Ashworth, Diana Green, Yvonne Hamilton, Marie Heister and Leander Pitman have applied for the three vacant seats on the Housing Authority board of directors.

Of the three seats, one is open to a member at large, one to a Lehigh Square resident 62 years or older, and one to a Lehigh Square resident of any age.

Those candidates who are Lehigh Square residents are Ashworth, who is 29 years old; Hamilton, 37, and Heister, 72.

Green, 29, lives on Lido Drive and Pitman, a retired lawyer, resides on Sundial Circle.

As a conclusion to individual school choral performances, the combined choirs together with Dublin's concert band will present a stirring rendition of God Bless America.

Performance time is 7:30 p.m. and admission is $1 (advance sale) for adults $1.25 at the door. All admissions are contributions to the music programs of the various schools participating. Tickets will be on sale from individual school choir members.

The program is being organized by Miriam Wain, choir director at Amador Valley High School.

On April 24, the Amador Valley High choir will be participating in the California Music Educators Choral Festival. Last year Amador Valley High hosted the event and this year the festival is set for Ohlone College in the Mission San Jose section of Fremont.

Mrs. Wain is Amador choir director. She states that in the ten years of the festival, Amador's choir has never had a rating lower than "Superior."

There is no admission charge to A Cappella Choir performances at the festival.

Amador, Dublin list scholarship signups

Friday is the deadline for graduating seniors at Amador Valley and Dublin High Schools to pickup scholarship applications.

The scholarships are to be presented by Amador Valley Scholarships, Inc.

The organization is concerned that all deserving graduates take advantage of this opportunity. The grants start from $300.

Completed applications must be returned to counselling offices at the two schools by April 28.

The screening committee will review scholarship applications on May 5 at the Amador Valley High library at 7 p.m.

The latest donation is from the Pleasanton Woman's Club for $200. Other donors are the Pleasanton Soroptimist Club, Dublin High School school trustee account, advisor Gene Pappas, and Charles Auer VFW Post 9968.

Granada students call blood drive

LIVERMORE — Granada High students are staging their second blood drive of the year, and they need your help.

The Alameda - Contra Costa County Bloodmobile will be at the school (400 Wall St. off East Stanley Boulevard) Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. collecting blood to replenish the supply being used daily in East Bay hospitals. Granada High students 17 years or older are eligible to donate, but many students aren't old enough yet, so they're asking members of the community to help out.

In exchange, they have set up a credit system so anyone in Livermore can get blood, free, when needed.

Prospective blood donors are asked to call the school, 443-5000, to make an appointment. The painless process takes 15 minutes and you'll be rewarded with a cookie and a glass of juice when it's done.

The human body replaces the lost pint of fluid in 24 hours and produces blood cells within a week to take the place of those lost.

'The Hook' drops in

A giant hook descended from the sky onto the valley yesterday, scooping up cars and taking them away while the local citizenry just watched.

Far from being an invasion from space, however, the hook was part of a county beautification program to rid the area of abandoned cars.

The SFO "Sky Hook" helicopter descended into the valley below Mines Road yesterday in search of wrecked cars.

Utilizing an SFO "Sky Hook" helicopter, the County Building Inspection Department removed 24 wrecked car hulls from inaccessible parts of the valley. And so far, 1,039 such unsightly vehicles have been removed — without cost to the taxpayer.

Under a state program established in 1973, the cost to lift and remove each car is reimbursed by the state. In fact, the county makes money on each removal.

Yesterday's operation in Sunol and Livermore was fast and efficient, with several agencies coordinating communications and manpower to lift the cars as quick as possible. AAA Wreckers of Hayward removed the cars, and will eventually scrap them.

A spokesman at the scene said at least two of the cars recovered had been stolen and abandoned, while the others were just wrecks left by their owners to rot. The haul ranged from a Hillman and Nash, to a Ford and Chevrolet.

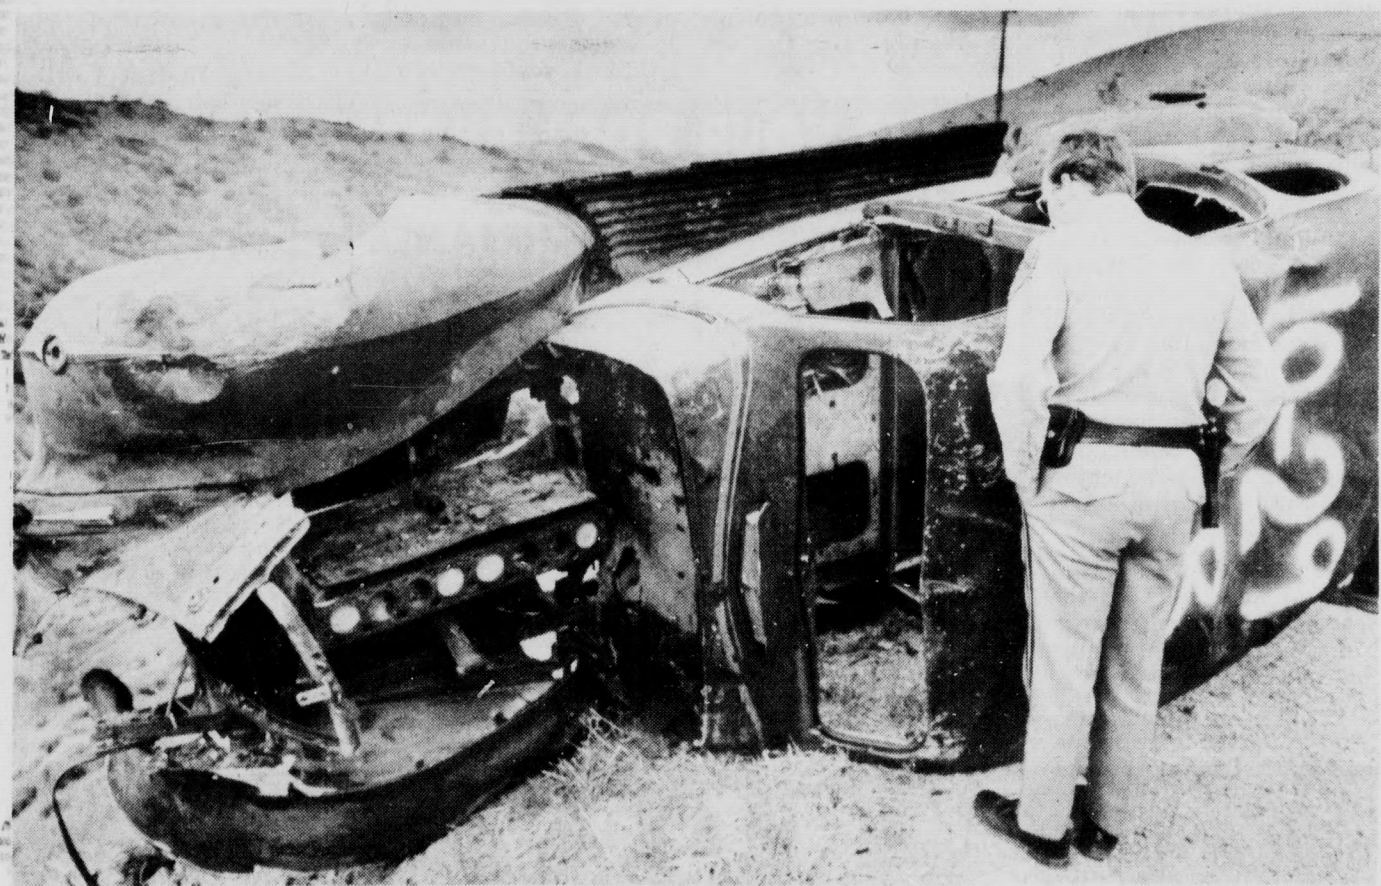

Photos
by Bill Cauble

County zoning administrator Jim Dowd, Highway Patrol communications coordinator Clay Kambic and zoning investigator Al Gross talk over a proposed route for another pickup.

A "rigger" from SFO places chains around an abandoned wreck so the chopper's hook can grab hold.

The Sky Hook lowers another wreck near the flatbed truck for hauling, while a member of the ground crew directs the drop.

After finishing the day's work, the chopper heads back over the ridge while pulling in its grappling hook.

Only minutes after the rigger finished attaching chains to it, this early 30's V-8 Nash lies at the top of the hill. The Sky Hook picked up its freight and delivered it to waiting ground crews on an average of two minutes per car. The cars were then loaded onto a truck and hauled away, later to be cubed into scrap and someday emerge as a new car.

Hands across the water

Mike Zampa

Local government in Dublin has been under the gun lately for its handling of the elaborate Olympic Pool swim complex at California High School. Critics have charged that it's poorly maintained and at times has posed a health hazard for young swimmers who use the facilities almost daily.

Now, it turns out, civic leaders deserve a pat on the shoulder (well, at least a grudging nod of approval) for developing the swim plant. It's made a hit as far away as Jakarta, Indonesia.

The National Swimming Federation of Indonesia is sending two of its brightest young prospects here for the next two years to train under local coaches.

They will be groomed to head the country's assault on the Asian Games in 1978.

The federation is settling the youngsters, 14-year old Anita Sapardjiman, and 17-year old HaKie Nyan, here on recommendation. But the 50-yard Olympic Pool played a role in finalizing the negotiations.

Indonesia yearns to become an international swim power. One of the requirements is a decent pool to train, however, and there isn't much available. That's what made the Olympic Pool at Cal High so attractive.

The two youngsters should arrive here by the middle of April. The young girl will attend California High School. HaKie will enroll at Dublin High. Both will swim for their high schools. They will also compete for the Norcal Aquatics team of Dublin.

Indonesian swim officials originally set their sites on the Marin Aquatic Club, which sent Rick DeMont to the 1972 Munich Olympics. Coach Don Schwartz recommended the Norcal team. Through the Indonesian Consulate and Norcal coach Bill Radley, arrangements were made for what amounts to a cultural, educational and athletic exchange program.

The two youngsters are expected to remain here in training right up to the time of the Asian Games in 1978.

HaKie will stay with the family of Dublin High swimmer Kevin McKenna. Anita will live with the Stanley Koenigsburger family of San Ramon. Both swimmers have studied the English language in school. In fact, Anita has already written a letter to her "new mother."

According to Radley, the kids' will transcend any language barriers in the pool with exceptional ability. Both are breaststroke specialists. Anita has clocked a 1:13 for the 100 meters, which would qualify her right now for the United States junior nationals.

Both have recorded times, says Radley, that many 18 and 19-year olds in this region have failed to achieve.

"They're the best in their country," he says. "They can go all the way."

Radley, speaking with the exuberance afforded all his swimmers, sees no reason Anita can't qualify for the American AAU championships before she returns home.

There's no hedging about the purpose of this aquatic exchange, says Radley. The two young Indonesians have talent. Their country wants to exploit it.

"They're trying to build a program and our cooperation is part of it," says Radley. "I think it's great. It's a marvelous opportunity for them, and it's quite an educational opportunity for our youngsters. They can learn about the problems other countries have, and maybe appreciate what we have here."

According to Radley, the day may come when American swimmers are exported in similar exchange programs.

Anita and HaKie are certainly not the first of the imports. Several foreign youngsters compete for the Coronado Navy Swim Club. A Puerto Rican youngster who was sent to the mainland for training made a big splash last weekend in the AAU championships at Long Beach.

The Canadians and West Germans are steadily eroding American swim power on their own. But instead of retreating from the foreign onslaught, the U.S. is inviting it, by aiding underdeveloped swim nations.

Of course the benefits aren't one-sided. Two high schools will gain in the Indonesian connection, and so will Radley's club. The coaches at Dublin and California, Tim Hern and Ken Carroll, are assistants to Radley, by the way.

Their new pupils should be in the water before the end of the month. It is a simple matter to transfer AAU affiliation to the Norcal team.

This is another boost for Radley, who has worked hard to build up his club since moving it here from Moraga. He already coaches a stable of youngsters who own national age group records. A few talented swim families say they are moving to the area to join his team.

Now he's been recommended to play a hand in the development of a nation's swim program.

For Radley, it's a fair exchange.

The East Bay's sixth and 11th ranked teams are still tied for first in the EBAL.

California High School scored a run in the bottom of the seventh to catch Monte Vista and held on for a 2-2 tie yesterday afternoon in Danville.

After the Mustangs had overtaken an early Grizzlies lead, Cal looked finished when, with Tom Woodmansee at first, Brett Cary topped a tricky bounder towards Monte Vista's onrushing third baseman Walt Finn.

But the usually reliable Finn couldn't pick it up, Cary was safe and the next batter, Larry Walters lined a shot past the harried Mustang corner man for a run-scoring base hit.

Cary and Monte Vista's Darryl Jardine then blanked each other for two innings to conclude the tie.

Grizzly co-coach Ed Noble claimed that both clubs had chances to win if not for, as he put it, "One lousy inning."

For MV it was the fateful seventh, for Cal the fifth.

In that frame, two singles, two walks and a sacrifice off tired Grizzly starter Chuck Perry set up MV's first run. Gregg Goodman drove in Brad Miller with that one, while pitcher Tony Adams chased Miller in the sixth with what was then the go-ahead run.

Cal came up with its first run in the first when Brett Cary walked, stole second and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

While Nobles' partner Bob Benatar, was pleased with the result at least in view of MV's brief lead - Cal had one shot at a victory in extra innings.

With one down in the eighth, left-handed batter Mike Daugherty singled on a line to right. One out later, Woodmansee also lined a single to right.

Dougherty, off with the pitch, made his turn around third but did not attempt to score. Noble, coaching third, was more than vindicated when Miller's throw to catcher Chris Hadsell was right on the money.

I didn't have any regrets about not sending him when I saw that throw," he mused after the contest.

But Benatar, who saw Cal break into the East Bay rankings for the first time in any sport is still impressed with his young squad.

"I can't believe the way these kids keep coming back."

Hitters spark Dons to win over Pokes

They've dubbed it "The Year of the Pitcher," but hitters had an afternoon of their own yesterday, helping Amador Valley High to a 5-1 victory over Livermore in EBAL baseball.

It was the Dons' third triumph in four tries this season. By winning, they remained within a game of the league lead. More important they displayed an offense for the first time—one that didn't require massive transfusions of energy, anyway.

Amador rattled losing pitcher Jeff Benton for eight base hits. It was an almost insurmountable spree in light of its past EBAL performances. It also provided a ring of truth to the incantations of coach Don Bush, who has been predicting that his team would soon escape a batting slump.

"We've had opportunities," Bush said last week. "We just haven't taken advantage of them."

Well yesterday, the Dons finally did. They jumped on three Livermore errors and a couple of costly bases on balls, scoring three times in the top of the fourth inning, and twice more in the seventh.

And while the bats were ringing, phases one and two of Amador's overall game plan were still in tact.

Rob Wicks kept the pitching at the remarkable level by stunting the Cowboys on seven hits. He struck out 13 and walked no one.

His defense played another impeccable game, committing one error which resulted from a catcher's interference.

The Dons have been doing those things all season long, however. The eight hits — there was something to rave about.

Dan Straface, Jeff Terry, Mike Connolly and Bill Bevilacqua all spanked run-scoring singles for Amador. Connolly beat out two infield choppers.

And it wasn't just success at the plate for the Dons. They hustled on the bases and picked up a couple of runs on aggressive-ness.

It all blended together in that fourth inning, after the clubs had played the first three to a scoreless tie. Mike Garrigan singled to start things up. Straface bunted him over to second base. Mike Johnson walked, then Terry skipped a base hit off the first base bag. His smash scored Garrigan and chased Johnson to third. Don Palmer lashed a line drive to left field that Ken Watts snagged off his shoelaces. With two out Connolly topped his second infield hit to third base. Johnson scored and Terry scampered all the way to third base while the Cowboys threw the ball around. That set up Bevilacqua's two-out base hit to right field, fetching the third run.

In the seventh inning, two errors, a free pass by Benton and Straface's infield hit produced the final runs. Everything else was Wicks' responsibility. He gave up more hits than usual — seven, but was seldom in danger. Singles by Rich Palmer and Rick Gildea, sandwiched around an infield out in the sixth inning, accounted for the only run off Wicks.

He required but one outstanding defensive maneuver to keep the Cowboys silenced. That was catcher Mark Bevilacqua's pickoff of Mark LaFranchi in the fourth inning. Livermore threatened at the time with runners at first and second base. Bevilacqua threw behind LaFranchi at first, and snared him in a run-down.

Dan Wood, who played well at shortstop for the Cowboys, doubled to open the Livermore first inning, but died at third base.

Chain shoot well attended

Charlie Litz

THE A.T.A. winter chain shoot at the Livermore - Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club was well attended over the weekend in spite of chilly winds and a threatening sky. As usual, the competition was tough among the top shooters. Results of the first day of the two-day program are as follows:

16-Yd., Singles, Class A, Joe Stella, 99; B, Dominic Slavich, 100; C, Richard Rodrigue, 98; D, Alice Casico, 94.

16-Yd., Doubles, Class A, John Hauser, 49; B, Joe Stella, 49; C, A.L. Hanson, 47; D, Bill Spinola, 47.

Handicap, Classes A,B,C,D: 25-Yd., Howard Levine, 97; Runner-up, Monte Maniz, 96.

High Lady, 16-Yd and Handicap, Nada Graham, total score 189; Runner up, Alice Casico, 187.

High Junior, 16-Yd and Handicap, Mark Conner, total 185.

High Sub-Junior, Mike Schwein, 182.

High Veteran, Dominic Slavich, 194.

Emanuel Mingoa, Chairman of the Trap Shooting Committee, put on a really great steak barbeque at the end of the first day's competition and everyone relaxed.

The second day's events continued the excellent showing of the previous one, with these high scores:

16-Yd., Class AA, Dennis Lewis (W.S.O.), 100; A, Eric Poletti, 99; B, William Watkins, 99; C, Joe Casico, 98; D, David C. Ponnillas, Jr., 99.

16-Yd., Ladies, Class A, Cheryl Dayton, 97; Runner-up, Jeanne Willitt, 93.

Handicap, Jess Green, 100; Runner up, Monte Maniz (W.S.O.), 97.

Ladies Handicap, Jeanne Bender, 92; Runner-up, Janice Jackson (W.S.O.), 91.

Doubles event, Class A, Bob Mastrelli, 50; B, Walt Marshall, 47; C, Paul Wurster, 47; D, Mike Schwein, 46.

16-Yd. and Handicap, combination, Ladies, Cheryl Dayton, total score, 194; Junior, Eric Poletti, 193; Veteran, Guy Clark, 189.

It's hard to beat a score of 100, right? You'll notice that Dominic Slavich had 100 in Class B, 16-Yd; Dennis Lewis had 100 in Class AA, 16-Yd; and Jess Green had 100 in the Handicap. Jess was presented with the special award of $200 given by the local club to anyone breaking 100 straight targets on Handicap. Fine shooting, Jess; and fine shooting, also, Dennis and Dominic.

Bob Mastrelli also made a perfect score with his 50 in the Doubles Event, Class A.

David Bonillas, Jr. received the coveted award of a life membership given by Ray Harman, president of C.G.S.T.A., to a sub-junior (15 years or under) who had the highest score in Event 4 and 5 on April 4. This event was a combination of 16-Yds. and Handicap. David had a fine score of 195.

MAY 2 is the date of the 29th Annual Barbeque at the Livermore - Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club. Running Deer, Pistol Shoot, Chicken Silhouette, Off-hand Rifle will be going on; and the trap and skeet ranges will be open. Special entertainment will be provided. The Annual Barbeque is always a special event for the whole family to attend. We think you'll enjoy it; so save the date!

Quakes ready for Sounders

In their brief history the San Jose Earthquakes have been geared for crowd-pleasing soccer.

Which means they attacked with the ball and scored plenty of goals.

To provide fans with offense the Earthquakes have employed some of the top scorers in American soccer history — Ilija Mitic, all-time leading scorer in the North American Soccer League, Art Welch, eighth all-time, and Paul Child, who topped all scorers in 1974 and is 11th in the all-time standings.

These were the names that filled San Jose's Spartan Stadium the past two seasons, and filled enemy nets.

Unfortunately, that wasn't enough to win a lot of matches.

In soccer, as in any sport, defense is usually an integral part of victory — maybe the single most important element.

And while the Earthquakes were succeeding in their primary goal, to sell soccer in the Bay Area, they weren't winning too often. The defense just hasn't been there.

Hopefully, say the Earthquakes, that will all change this year. The sport is solidly entrenched among Northern California's entertainment mediums. No longer is there a need to hype the action just to sell tickets. Now the team can concentrate full time on welding a roster that can compete with the best in the NASL.

San Jose is out to better the defense that was so weak last soccer season. It's final opportunity to improve upon it comes Sunday, when the Quakes meet the Seattle Sounders at Livermore's Robertson Park. Game time is 2 p.m.

This will be the final NASL exhibition for both clubs. It will be the first contest ever in Livermore featuring two of the league's teams. Last season an amalgam of West Coast NASL stars played to 5,000 rain-soaked fans here. The Earthquakes are hoping for a larger crowd this time.

They're also hoping to check the Sounders and their newly acquired scoring threat, Geoff Hurst of England. Hurst is the sixth leading all-time scorer in English international matches.

With names like George Best and Pele in the NASL this season, Hurst will be a good test for San Jose's backfield, and for its goal keeping corps.

Indications are that Quake coach Gabbo Gavric will make a switch in the nets this year, going with 5-11, 165 Mike Hewitt, acquired from defending champion Tampa in the off-season. Hewitt, once Scotland's goalkeeper on the under-23 national team, posted a 1.18 goals - against average last season.

He has looked sharp in the exhibition schedule, and may have the inside track over San Jose veteran goal keeper Mike Ivanow.

The two-year starter for the Earthquakes is a 6-4, 200 pounder and a former All-American at University of San Francisco.

Ivanow did not enjoy a good 1975 and with the acquisition of Hewitt, his future in San Jose appeared in jeopardy. Mike came into camp with 30 fewer pounds this year, however, and a different attitude. He is working hard to save his job, say Quake officials, and giving Hewitt a battle for the starting spot.

Of crucial importance to Gavric

Sunday will be the work of his backfield, which is being retooled for the upcoming season. Two newcomers should make appearances there Sunday, John Rowlands, formerly of the Sounders, and Milo Pavlovic, of the Yugoslav national team.

Rowlands was a top scorer for Seattle, and in fact, scored every time his club faced the Earthquakes. But with another San Jose acquisition, forward Djuro Sorgic of Belgium, Rowlands is freed to shore up the defense. Joining with Pavlovic, it should give the Earthquakes their best backfield ever.

Of course veterans Buzz and Mark Demling will return to play defense this year. Buzz will not appear Sunday in Livermore, however. He suffered an injury Sunday during an exhibition in San Diego, and is lost for a month.

Tickets for Sunday's match are available at Travel Universal in Livermore and Pleasanton, Dutch Pride Dairy in Dublin, and the Livermore Recreation Department.

Portions of the gate go to youth soccer.

Don girls impressive in victory over Gaels

"I'm impressed," commented a spectator. "I've never watched girls play softball like this."

And impressing it was, as the Amador girls softball team won a 7-5 thriller over upset-minded Dublin in EBAL action Tuesday. Amador, 5-0 overall and 2-0 in league play, led throughout the game, but the Gaels, now 2-1, rallied in the bottom of the sixth inning as Jackie Downing singled, bringing in Deanna Galant to tie it up, 4-4.

Gail Willard's double brought in Downing and the Dublin squad took the lead for the first and only time. The Gaels' hopes of breaking the Dons' three - year winning streak were dashed, however, as the Dublin club took the field and Amador stepped to the plate.

Gael hurler Willard alternated balls and strikes, but Don catcher Jamie Watson doubled. Debbie Oxsen's double moved the tying run to third and Carolyn Fleischer's single brought Watson in to knot the score, 5-5.

Kris Brittain's grounder moved her to second base as Gael shortstop Jona Smith bobbled the ball, allowing Oxsen and Fleischer to score Amador's winning runs. Don pitcher Deanna Marengo struck out the Gaels' first batter, while the Amador club wrapped up the win as Jeanne Castillo was thrown out at first and Oxsen nailed a Darlene Gray fly ball.

"Dublin is a very good team," commented Amador mentor Vivian Straight, "but we hit well and our pitcher (Marengo) did an excellent job."

Marengo had six strike-outs to her credit, while losing pitcher Willard had seven Marengo also belted a home run, while bringing in two runs and teammate Brittain brought in an equal number. Smith led the losers with two RBIs.

In another league contest, California downed San Ramon 18-11. Cal brought in 12 runs in the fourth and fifth frames to clinch its first league game of the season. The Grizzlies' Patricia Dulick and Marcy Smith belted doubles and Campbell's triple and double paced the losers. Cal's hurler Jodi Catala pitched two strike-outs while the Wolves' Sue Little did the same.

In the only junior varsity contest, Amador ran its record to 5-0 as Kim Libert's home run led the Dons to a 20-11 trouncing of Dublin.

Gaels, Mats fight to draw

After nine innings of wild baseball the Dublin - Granada game ended in a 5-5 tie yesterday afternoon on the Dublin field.

Both teams had battled back and forth for the last four innings with nary a run coming across the plate. Dublin started out the contest as if it were going to blow the Matadors away in the stiff valley wind.

The Gaels scored two runs in the first inning without gaining a hit. Two straight walks by Matador starting pitcher Tim Duke paved the way for the scoring.

The Gaels added a run in the second on a single by Chris Downing and three walks.

Granada scored its first run in the third on a walk and a triple by Duke into center field.

The Matadors tied the score in the fourth on three hits and a walk.

Both teams scored two runs in the fifth to conclude the scoring.

Girls' tennis AV wins thriller

A couple of top players were missing from the lineup, and it made for a thrilling afternoon of tennis for the Amador Valley High girls team.

The Dons defeated Dublin, 4-3, in an EBAL match, with many of the individual duels going three sets and some, to tie-breakers.

Four regulars were lifted from the Amador lineup for this match to test other players. They came through in a pressurized match.

Dublin's Carol Allen won at number one singles, topping Cathy Gadd in a gloriously contested three sets, 1-6, 7-6, 7-6.

Amador won second and third singles behind Marilyn Morrell and Becky Canessa. The Gaels' Cheryl Smith came back to top Debbie Lapp in three sets at fourth singles.

Amador won two of three doubles matches, as Carolyn Hill and LeeAnn Thomson stopped Jay Hawthorn and Lori Kretchmar in the number one slot, 6-3, 6-2. The Dons' Lynn Millard and Diane Hoopner downed Kathy Thompson and Jill Tobey, 6-2, 6-0.

For Dublin, Cindy Grant and Chris Gavoni defeated Debbie Drummond and Cathy Camozzi, 6-7, 6-4, 7-5.

In other action yesterday, Livermore beat Foothill, 7-0.

Top singles Stephanie Schall led the parade with a 6-0, 6-2 victory over Diane Look. Leslie Harrison of the Cowboys won a thriller from Carol Garske, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Amador, Mats in key match

With the EBAL dual - meet title probably at stake, the Amador and Granada swimming teams tangle at the Dons' pool today in a key meet.

Other EBAL meets on schedule for today are Monte Vista at California and Livermore at Dublin.

The Amador - Granada meet features the Dons' depth and balance against the Matadors' outstanding individual talent led by All-American Chris Hoenig.

Hoenig's greatest asset is his versatility. He can swim several events for the Matadors. Probably his most outstanding event is the 200-yard freestyle, in which he has a Southern Alameda County all-time best of 1:59.8.

Amador, on the other hand, is blessed with great depth. While the Dons have no swimmer the caliber of Hoenig, they do have several fine performers, of which Brian Story is probably the best.

Story is an outstanding breaststroker and can also swim the individual medley. Last week against Dublin he won the breaststroke, took second in the medley and swam a leg on the winning medley relay team.

Paul Morton is another outstanding swimmer for the Dons. He swims the flystroke, 50-yard freestyle and 200-yard medley relay.

Mark Allen and Steve Pratchuk also are standout swimmers for Amador.

Foods that abound in high quality protein ... beef, veal, lamb, pork, poultry, fish, eggs and cheese always make welcome main dishes. Thrifty main dishes often combine these protein-rich foods with vegetables or the bread-cereal group of the basic four food groups ... for example, beef stew with vegetables or dumplings, chicken with rice, fish with stuffing, cheese with macaroni. Dry beans and peas are also thrifty choices—with a little meat added they produce high quality protein meals. If a main dish is not high in protein, it's possible to supply additional protein with the other foods in the meal.

If, for instance, a pound of meat is to serve six or eight persons, you might combine it with vegetables in a casserole or stew. Add milk to the menu as a beverage and serve cheese-topped apple pie for dessert.

If you are making hamburgers, the meat can be extended for extra servings by adding bread crumbs, dry milk, eggs and fine-cut onions along with your favorite seasonings, of course. The dry milk and eggs also extend the amount of protein in the hamburgers.

The same thing holds true when you are making meat loaf. Adding eggs and dry milk provides extra protein as well as more servings.

Serving homemade noodles with chicken also pays protein dividends through the eggs used in preparing them. Homemade noodles aren't difficult to make. Check a good cookbook for directions and you're on your way to pleasing your family with something really tasty. Homemade bread, noodles, cakes, pies, rolls, etc., seem to be a popular way of saving money today. Besides, there is something so satisfying about "doing it yourself."

More taxes or less service?

This is the week they drop the other shoe. And maybe even the kitchen sink.

The State Legislature is struggling with the problem of taxes, again. This time the push is for a ceiling on the local agency's taxing ability. That would, supposedly, relieve the beleaguered home owner of that "terrible tax burden" we're always hearing about.

It would also strap local government with spending limits that result in the kind of reduced fire and police service which most suburbanites find intolerable — particularly when that service is most needed.

Lobbyists for the League of California Cities and the County Supervisors Association say they support legislation that would limit the property tax, provided that dollar loss is offset by a half-cent boost in the sales tax.

Governor Brown has stated he will veto any tax increase, no matter how much and on who. It is in keeping with the governor's famous "lower-your-expectations" homily.

The promise of reduced property taxes seems to be reaching the public, while the threat of reduced services is lost in all that other rhetoric. Either that, or half the populace is demanding tax relief, while the other half insists on increased municipal services.

Those two halves had a confrontation in Livermore recently, on the question of a 25 cent tax override for "vital police and fire services." The half which wants no property tax boost, no matter what, won out. It was a bad omen for those whose expectations exceed their finances.

There is a good chance that Sacramento will come up with "property tax relief" this year ... but at the expense of higher taxes on something else.

Somehow, the ultimate impact of reduced governmental spending is not getting through to the taxpayer. Governor Brown makes a great "lower your expectations" speech, but everyone thinks he's talking about two other guys.

What is needed is a California poll on a meaningful subject, for a change. "Do you want more governmental services, more protection? Or do you want lower taxes?" Then all we'd need is a state government that would pay attention to the answer.

Congressman Stark

Federal cash and the fire station

by Rep. Fortney H. (Pete) Stark, Jr.
Congressman, Ninth District

Critics of politicians, bureaucrats and government often curse our system with clichés like, "You can't solve problems by throwing money at them."

The city of Livermore had a problem. The health and safety of its citizens were jeopardized by a lack of adequate police and fire facilities. But these cost money, and there was none. Local taxpayers were already too overburdened.

The federal government "threw" some money at Livermore, and the city used it to build a fire station and a police building, solving a serious public safety problem.

The example is fresh in my mind because Livermore dedicated its new main fire station this week. Both of the projects, plus a second fire station now on the drawing boards, were made possible by federal revenue sharing.

Unquestionably, there is waste in government. The most obvious example is our bloated defense budget. Spending billions for arms we don't need, just to keep generals and admirals happy, doesn't make sense, especially from a business standpoint. The manufacture of arms and munitions makes far fewer jobs than worthwhile public projects, and it places an unproductive burden on the national debt.

As any homeowner knows, buying a house on credit is a good investment, even though it creates a debt. The same principle applies when government creates a debt to finance public projects. Hospitals, fire stations and other public works are comparable to assets produced by debt in the private sector. They are permanent assets, unlike, say, a bomb, which can be used once.

Due largely to the administration's preoccupation with instruments of death, our cities and counties have fallen on hard times. Many are going broke. Even affluent communities such as Livermore are finding it tough, if not impossible, to maintain satisfactory levels of service without financial help.

Revenue sharing bills are being considered in Congress right now. I have joined in a bi-partisan move to get speedy reenactment of revenue sharing, so that local municipalities can plan their budgets and keep from going bankrupt. The timing is uncertain, but I hope we'll get a bill to the full House sometime next month.

I have been critical of revenue sharing because the funds are not always distributed equitably between cities and suburban areas, or used for the greatest good. However, these problems can be solved, and I don't think they apply to cities and other jurisdictions in the 9th Congressional District. All of our communities, from central city to suburbs, desperately need revenue sharing funds to lift the crushing burden from local taxpayers and allow cities to plan adequately for the future.

Two days later I wrote a piece complaining about the destruction of the Hub and the Sportsman's Grill at the corner of Livermore Avenue and First Street.

Both pieces were written with my tongue in my cheek and the second particularly was designed to be funny.

Then I waited for the ax to fall. The mayor of Livermore has been displeased with some of my work in the past. And believe me, the mayor is not bashful about letting a man know she thinks he is wrong.

I waited for a telephone call, a letter or maybe a blow from a mace and chain on the side of my head.

Sure enough, late Thursday afternoon the telephone rang and I was told Helen Tirsell was on the line.

I braced myself, picked up the receiver and muttered a feeble greeting.

"This is Helen Tirsell," the cheery voice told me. "I just wanted to let you know I thought your column yesterday was great!" Now how in the world can a man do anything except respect a person who responds to a little good natured teasing with that kind of response.

Believe me, it is taking all my will power now not to use a phrase which would bring the wrath of much of the feminine gender of this community down on my head.

Let it be enough to say the mayor has become a seasoned politician during her two years in office. She knows now, having weathered some rough rounds with the public, just how hot is the seat in which all of us who are in any way public figures sit.

Ron McNicoll on the - City Hall flap

There was quite a flap at Pleasanton City Hall last week over a story we carried. City Manager Bill Edgar told the city council that employees were "discourteous" at all levels. Many staff members felt hurt about it when they read my story the following Wednesday, according to reports which reached me.

Edgar reportedly issued a memo on the topic, saying my story didn't represent what he meant at all. I haven't seen that — or heard any complaints from Edgar — but I would like the city employees who weren't present at the city council meeting to hear my side of the dispute over reporting accuracy and interpretation.

A city hall source who was at the meeting said my quotes were accurate, but were "out of context." All the bad things were reported, but none of the good things were stated, said the critic at city hall. That may have been, but the "bad things" were the newsworthy ones. For the first time the city manager was saying to the city council that his staff has acted discourteously "at all levels."

My city hall critic said that I should have said it was only a minority of staff in a minority of instances that was discourteous. But Edgar didn't add that qualification, so I felt I couldn't either. I think my story was accurate. I put it together coherently and proof that it was an understandable story is the fact that the mayor received many phone calls from citizens after it appeared.

I have known Bill Edgar for eight years and found him to be a candid and honest public official. His remarks at the city council were in line with that image I hope he continues to be candid and if he has any problems with my reporting, I would like to hear from him.

I think the city has a good staff. At all levels employees have been helpful and open with me in keeping with "the small town public spirit." I never have run into any bureaucratic snafus at city hall as I have with other levels of government and that's a high compliment indeed.

— by Ron McNicoll

Letters to the Times

Zone 7 scene

AN OLD TIME RANGE WAR-1976

Gone is the era. Gone is the day. Yet still the story and the meaning stay.

Setting: A little valley in the West 100 years ago.

On the east side of the valley, Miller is saying to Futch, "You know, if we join Harris and form a slate, we could get control of Zone 7 and the water rights. We could control the whole valley and keep out all those squatters that want to settle here."

Futch replies, "Good idea."

Miller continues, "I don't have a very high opinion of those homesteaders out there, and they don't know anything about Zone 7 and don't care. Let's go down to the OK Corral and talk to Harris."

As they approach the OK Corral, Harris is sitting on the fence. Miller calls, "Hay Dave, get down off that fence. You've been up there for four years. We need to talk to you."

Harris exclaims, "Oh no, I've got to stay here because the sky might fall any minute now."

Futch joins in, "Dave, do you want to join a slate and help us keep all those squatters out of this valley?"

Harris replies, "O.K., but we can't call it a slate. All those laymen out there don't like slates, and they have to vote us into office."

Futch says, "Drat it." Miller says, "Ho hum."

Meanwhile, on the west side of the valley at the Long Branch Saloon, Kinney is talking to his sidekick, Schweser. "Those chicken little, paranoid, obstructionist sidewinders on the east side have formed a slate to lasso control of the water rights. We had better form one, too, and try to stop them. If we get control of the water, we can build that Now Town."

Schweser says, "Yup, that would be exciting."

Just then Marguth enters "I'll join your slate, too, says Gib, 'but we'll have to put on white hats and pretend that we're really looking out for the interests of the homesteaders. I'll tell the people that Geldertown is a non-issue; that it's nonsense.'"

Kinney remarks, "Yup, and I'll give the people some double talk on where I stand concerning Geldertown."

A few days later: Back at the OK Corral Harris is still sitting on the fence and exclaiming to his pardners, "Those varmints on the west side have called us paranoid because we don't think the same way that they do. Let's challenge them to a showdown at sunrise on June 8."

Futch says, "Hugh." Miller says, "He hum."

Intermission: (The first act is based on quotes taken from recent newspaper articles. The second act will have to wait until after the June 8 election.)

Watching an old western on T.V. the other night made me think how funny the parallel is between the range war in that movie and what is going on today in this valley. We have two extreme slates fighting for control of the water. One slate is pro-development; the other is anti-development.

I reject extremism on either side. If I am elected as a director to Zone 7, I will fight for the rights of all the people of the valley and not for any special interest groups.

Ken Hart
Candidate for Zone 7

Editor, The Times:

Re: Al Fischer's commentary:

With regards to your recent editorial "The Murray Case" (3/26/76), we would like to offer you a copy of the recent letter Donlon Parent Faculty Club sent to the Murray School District Board of Trustees.

In your editorial you suggested that one or more parents from each school area, possibly those now serving on the Parent Advisory Council be invited to sit in on discussions involving housing of 7th & 8th grade students. (Did you perhaps mean the Parent Administrative Council?)

The Donlon PFC feels strongly that we need open communication in the district. We further feel that parent input not be restricted to a select group but should be open to all Murray School District parents.

Ginni Lunger, President
Donlon Parent Faculty Club

Dog control

Editor, The Times:

This is directed to Gordon and Renee Smith, frequent writers to the newspapers on their interests in the community outside of their home and neighborhood.

It is unfortunate that your community interest does not begin at home, as far as your dogs are concerned ...

As you both know, there are a number of our close neighbors who own dogs. Now if you both were honest with yourselves you would have to admit that these neighbors do not violate the rights of the rest of the neighborhood ...

For those who have written letters in the past, as to what can be done to dog owners who disregard the rights of others, I can only say to contact the Police Animal Control Dept. and ask their help ... maybe in time they can get through to such people.

St. Michael's sale

Editor, The Times:

The success of St. Michael's 7th Annual School Plant Sale, "Bit O' Green," was due to the tremendous support it received from the community, area merchants and local news media.

With its profits, estimated at over $2500.00, supplementary educational material will be purchased for the children.

We thank you.

Found the town

I opened the shed door and — too late! — remembered that the blessed swing hung in the door frame would bash me in the knees, once again. But there was no bash, no swing.

I eased my way across the kitchen floor, prepared any moment to step on a rattle, or go sliding along on that little wooden wagon the wee one was forever leaving in my path. But there was no rattle, no wagon. And no wee one.

It has taken me a day or two to adjust. Waking up to the terrible silence of morning. Coming home to a place populated by just one small dog.

"They should be approaching Fiji now," was her breakfast report the other day. We kept that kind of tabs on them, as the Quantas 747 carrying them from San Francisco to Brisbane ate up the miles, and the hours.

For 28 days they had shared our home, occupied every waking moment of our daily routine. We knew that Michaelleen Marie and Tuny Marie weren't the ONLY grandchildren in town. But for us, for the month of March, they were the center of the universe, the movers and shakers of our world. And oh — how they shook.

"It was quite a scene at the airport," she reported. I had been unable to make the trip to SF International. The surgeon had pared away part of my foot earlier that day. By nightfall, somebody had cut out most of my heart.

"What happened at the air terminal?" I asked, eager for the last word on the wee ones, apprehensive as to what terrible deed Michaelleen had offered as her farewell performance.

"Things were going beautifully," she said, "but then the departure was delayed on hour, and we had to sit in one of those little waiting areas all that time." A nearby escalator had proven a fascination not to be ignored, at least not by Michaelleen. Her Auntie Molly went to the rescue. Not appreciated one bit. Mike wanted the escalator. Molly wanted to save the kid's neck. Molly won. Mike let out a wail that shook the entire air terminal.

"It was a terrible moment," the grandmother advised me. It was one I wished I could have shared. An Australian's last stand. Michaelleen Marie taking on the escalator at San Francisco International Airport.

Now it is all a memory. The small chair — and — table set which sat smack in the middle of the living room for almost a month, and that nobody had the courage to move. It was Mike's place. Hal-lowed ground.

The deck of cards was still scattered across that small table. Or what was left of that sorry 52. Torn and bent and chewed a little. Survivors of a hundred attempts to build a House of Cards, but that never got past the first floor, because Mike so thoroughly enjoyed knocking the cards down.

"Wait until he gets the house built," her mother would admonish in that wonderful Australian way of hers. But Mike is a do'er, not a waiter. After we had both come to accept that, Mike and I found an understanding, of sorts. She commanded, I jumped.

Even the dog knows something has gone wrong with the household routine. By mid-March she had astounded us with her acceptance of two small invaders from Down Under. But down under the kitchen table, all three managed somehow to survive.

Now Ritzie is supreme once again. She is also hungry. Her once-a-day meal is not nearly enough.

"Did you feed the dog today?" the lady of the house asks. "She's acting very strange."

She is acting strange because she misses that constant diet of Cheerios, splashed from the high chair onto the kitchen floor. It was a move whereby one tiny Australian would win the heart of that dogmatic German. Ritzie was never more than a few feet from Tuny Marie throughout those 28 days.

"I went upstairs to see if Tuny was asleep," the young mother reported one Sunday afternoon. "And there was Ritzie, sitting on the bed next to the crib, watching the baby ever so intently."

Turned out that Ritzie was intent on Tuny Marie's thumb. Anything good enough for the baby to be sucking must be worth sharing with her canine friend. After all, they shared every other meal.

Such are the memories. Of babe and dog, of a back door rarely closed, of a new hazard never quite cleared. "The Making of a Grandparent, 1976." It was a course in sheer survival.

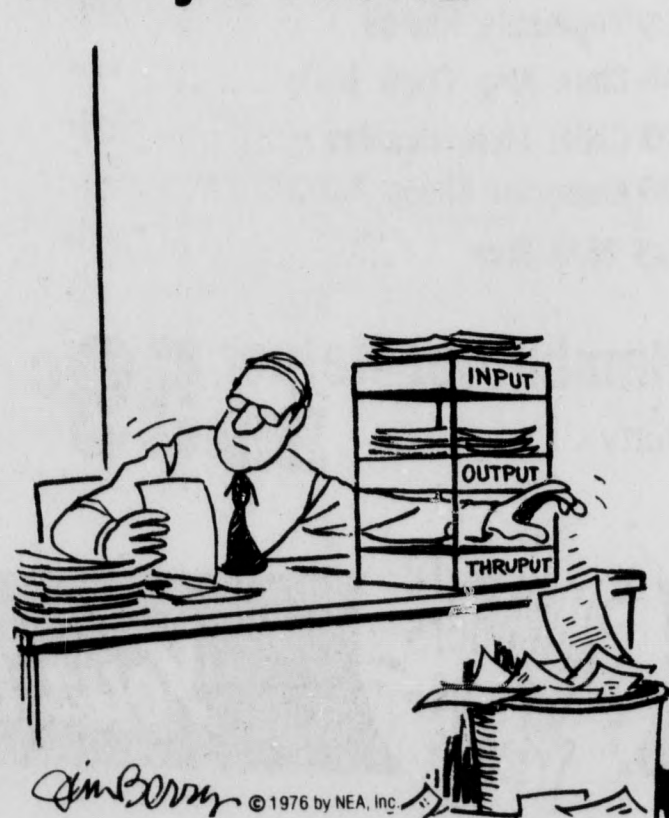

"I was really quite proud of you," she said this morning in summing up our March Test. "Both you and Ritzie performed very well, all things considered."

Ritzie and I agree. It was, we think, one of our very best months. But now we are alone again. The dog and I.

"Think I'll give her a few Cheerios to tide her over until dinner," says I, slipping into the kitchen.

Walt Hecox

There was a time in the days of yore when this old man wore a dark blue suit with a barely visible chalk stripe and a broad-brimmed fedora on the back of his head in the manner approved by Hildy Johnson, her city editor, and Mr. Jimmy McFadden, the police reporter for the Monarch of the Dailies.

I wore that hat, always on the back of my head, until the girl I eventually married told me it looked like hell, whereupon I took it off and remained bareheaded except for Rodeo time in Livermore.

When the rodeo comes I wear a ten-gallon hat which is fashioned from tight woven straw and try to simulate the rolling gait of an old cowhand.

I mention these hats not because they are relevant to what I have to say but because if I were wearing either I would lift it in a smart salute to Helen Tirsell, the lady who currently holds the tiller of the ship of state in Livermore.

A week ago Sunday I somewhat soundly criticized the Livermore City Council, complaining bitterly because that body had failed to continue its support of the rodeo parade and suggesting the salaries of that august body be donated jointly to the Livermore Stockmen's Rodeo Association and the American Indian Society.

For Wednesday, April 7, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful today not to treat people in your charge in an arrogant fashion. It could create resentments they'll long remember.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're likely to have little tolerance or patience today with persons who can't wholly support your views. Try to be less opinionated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Avoid a friend who is more of a taker than a giver. This person might try to use you to his advantage today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Keep your ambitions within reasonable bounds today. If others feel you are too self-serving, they may put roadblocks in your path.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you may do something in spite of your better judgment and wind up creating a problem. Don't be your own worst enemy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you are obligated in any manner to an acquaintance, try to get the matter cleared up now. If he has to ask you about it, he'll be miffed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be careful today not to unintentionally offend someone whose cooperation is essential to your plans. It could cost an ally.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Select your co-workers for critical tasks with care today. Avoid types who would rather be a boss than a willing helper.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's good to believe in others, but don't place your faith today in persons who don't warrant it. You're likely to be let down.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19) There won't be much harmony around home today if you or your mate are too insistent upon having your own way. Find a middle ground.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may have the opportunity to be of service to someone today whose help you will later need. Do what's expected willingly.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't let your extravagant tendencies gain the upper hand over prudent judgment today. Keep your budget in mind at all times.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is an old bridge rule of thumb called, "Eight ever — nine never" that applies to the play of a suit when the defense holds the queen. When you hold exactly eight you try a finesse. When you hold nine you try to drop the lady.

The "ever" with eight is almost always correct; the "never" with nine is such a close proposition that experts frequently go against it when they know that one opponent holds a long side suit.

In today's hand East took his ace of clubs and returned the suit. South ruffed with the six of trumps, led a trump to dummy's king, noted the fall of the queen from West, led a trump back, finessed against East's jack and made his slam when the finesse worked.

The finesse wasn't a sure thing, but it was definitely the correct percentage play. The principle of restricted choice had come into action. West held either queen-jack or queen of hearts. With queen-jack he might well have played the jack. With the actual queen singleton he had to play the queen.

Ask the Jacobys

A Florida reader wants to know if it is ever correct to pass when partner opens one no trump.

The answer is that it is frequently correct to do so. In fact with any balanced hand and many slightly unbalanced hands it is correct to do so any time you hold seven high-card points or less.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Fighting erupts at meet site

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Fighting broke out Tuesday around a palatial villa designated as the site for a special session of parliament aimed at ending Lebanon's civil war, now almost a year old.

Witnesses reported heavy machine-gun fire between Christian and Moslem militiamen and explosions near the Villa Esseily only hours after it was announced parliament would meet there Saturday.

The supposed neutrality of the mansion site, near the only crossing point between Moslem and Christian sections of Beirut, had made it acceptable to both leftist Moslem and right-wing Christian party chiefs.

The regular parliament building in downtown Beirut has been plundered by looters and is under sniper fire from militia front lines.

An official said it would have required 3,000 security troops to make it safe for a meeting, "and this large a force is not available at the moment." He said only 300 men would be needed to guard the villa.

Police reported 32 persons killed and 38 wounded since daybreak Tuesday at the halfway point of a 10-day truce declared to give politicians another chance to work out a peaceful settlement.

Shrine Circus coming

Dublin's Chris Wonder has to crane his neck to talk to George the Clown about the Aahmes Polack Brothers Shrine Circus that's arriving in Oakland April 23. A weekend of star-spangled Bicentennial entertainment is promised for the modest ticket price of $2 general admission, $3.50 reserved and ringside. Trapeze acts, elephants, chimpanzees and lions will compete with the clowns for excitement. Shows are 8 p.m. Friday, 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Saturday, 1 and 5 p.m. Sunday, April 23, 24 and 25 to benefit the Shriners' work with handicapped children. Tickets: 533 - 8156.

Advanced lifesaving class set by LARPD for Easter week

LIVERMORE — An advanced lifesaving course will be offered during Easter vacation week, April 12 through 16, at Granada High School Swim Center from 2 to 6 p.m. by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District (LARPD).

A fee of $10 covers instruction and materials. Each swimmer will receive the American National Red Cross book, "Lifesaving Rescue and Water Safety" and a Red Cross certification in advanced lifesaving (formerly senior lifesaving).

BORN LOSER

If you think things sometimes go wrong for you, you'll feel better after laughing at "The Born Loser" each morning in The Times comics.

will be given to those who successfully complete the course.

Sign-ups will be taken at LARPD offices, 71 Trevarno Road, and more information can be obtained by calling the District at 447-7300.

LARPD also plans to offer a course in cardiopulmonary resuscitation and standard first aid at a later date. Announcements will be made by LARPD of the times and locations.

'Project Close-up'

Valley students visiting capitol

LIVERMORE — Thirteen Livermore High students and their social science teacher, Ron Nicola, are spending this week in Washington, D.C. learning about their government.

The students are participating in "Project Close-

Up," a student tour several dozen local students enjoy each spring after a winter of fund-raising to get ready.

They meet with their Congressmen, tour the Capitol building and have seminars on contemporary government problems.

Participating in this year's LHS trip are Julie Loggins of 4347 East Ave.; Helen Ordaz of 856 Brennan Way; Sandi Cochran of 988 Lynn St.; Tom Compton of 447 Estates St.; Allison Litterst of 710 Winbledon Lane; Christine Chakakis of 320 Mitchell Court; and Jerry Eckroat of 3980 Purdue Way.

Also participating are Claudia Haggin of 10974 Clifford; Antoinette Ruiz of 1903 Broadmoor St.; Janice Ford of 3215 Leahy Way; Ginger Der of 3419 East Ave.; Mark Lewis of 1462 Lillian St.; and Tami McDonald of 1056 Auburn St.

The trip is April 4 - 10. Students from Granada and Del Valle High Schools are also planning Close-Up jaunts this spring.

Pleasanton invites nominees to city commission openings

PLEASANTON — The city will take applications for vacancies on three commissions until 5 p.m. Friday, April 16.

There will be one vacancy on the planning commission which will occur when Howard Garrigan leaves in May. There is one vacancy on the park and recreation commission created by the resignation of Ken Mercer when he joined the city council.

The city council is looking for a replacement for Housing Authority Commissioner Elizabeth Hall, who met the two-term limit, and also needs two public housing residents to fill two new housing authority seats mandated by a new state law. One of the new commissioners must be a senior citizen.

Interested applicants should send resumes to City Manager William Edgar, City Hall, 200 Bernal Ave., Pleasanton.
